Kayla Boxley,

I am writing this letter because the SDSU meat judging team is conducting a raffle for a set of beanbag boards. The meat judging team is an organization within the Animal Science Department. I am the current meat judging coach, and I was unaware of the approval of raffles before starting. I found out this information on Sep. 7th. However, my team started selling raffle tickets this past weekend, Sep 3rd, as well as advertising the raffle on social media. There have already been tickets purchased for this raffle. Also, because of social media there are checks being mailed in. We want to raffle the boards off at Beef Bowl, Sep. 17th, because this is when the majority of our target audience will be present on campus. The proceeds from the raffle go directly to the meat judging team to cover costs for travel and contest registration. If there are any questions or missing information, please contact myself using any of the contact information listed below in the signature.

Sincerely,

Heather Rode
